Parent and guardian consent form

For students under 13 using Classora in their class

TEACHER | SCHOOL | CLASS

Dear parent or guardian,

Our class uses Classora, an online classroom. Students earn a pretend class currency for tasks, save and spend it, vote in class polls, take quizzes, read documents their teacher shares and draw on shared whiteboards. Classora is made for students aged 13 and over, so a student under 13 can only use it with written consent from a parent or guardian. Please read what Classora collects below, then sign the second page and return it to your child's teacher.

1 What Classora collects about your child

- Their name and a username. A first name or nickname is fine. Their password is only ever stored in scrambled (hashed) form.
- What they do in class on Classora: tasks, class money, quiz answers, poll and election votes, things they write for the class (like kudos and suggestions — rude words can be filtered out), whiteboard drawings, and reading progress.
- Sign-in and security details: when they last signed in, which days they used Classora, and their IP address (used to protect accounts, for example from people guessing passwords).
- Two essential cookies that keep them signed in. Nothing else.

Classora does not collect your child's email address, phone number, home address, location or photos. Classora has no ads, never uses children's information for advertising or marketing, and never sells it.

2 Who can see it

- The teacher sees everything in their class.
- Classmates see your child's name and what the class shares with everyone, like kudos, polls and any leaderboards the teacher turns on.
- Classora staff, only when needed to run, fix or protect the service.
- The companies that host and protect Classora (Google Cloud and Cloudflare), only to provide that service. Classora's servers are in the United States.

3 How long it's kept

While your child's account is in use, plus up to 2 years. The teacher can delete the class, and everything in it, at any time. You can ask for your child's information to be deleted sooner.

4 Your rights

You can ask to see, correct or delete your child's information, or withdraw your consent at any time, by telling the teacher or emailing hatkid@creativecrew.games. The full privacy policy is at getclassora.com/privacy.
